Notes:

Band refers to BT price band

NTS charges are calculated using the regime set out below:

Originating operator retains: $P - D + C$

Terminating operator receives: $D - C$

where:

P is the actual retail price charged by the originating operator to the customer;

C is the pence per minute charge for conveyance over a single tandem segment of KCH's network determined in this determination (multiplied by the number of minutes of the call) plus an uplift to allow for retail costs incurred by the originating operator in handling these calls;

D is the Deemed Retail Price for the call and is:

- in the case of FreeCall services, zero;
- in the case of NationalCall services, the net retail price after average discounts charged by the originating operator for national calls;
- in the case of LowCall services the net retail price after average discounts. The average price in pence per minute is affected considerably by the duration of the call because of KCH's minimum call charge. To correct for the distortion caused by the minimum charge, D is disaggregated into two rates, one for short duration and one for long duration calls;
- in the case of PremiumCall Services, KCH's retail price minus average discounts and bad debts;
- in the case of Multimedia services, KCH's retail price minus average discounts.
