Phone box trail

A fun family walk around a cream
coloured slice of Hull history

This trail around 12 of our phone boxes should take you about 90 minutes, with plenty of opportunities to stop for a drink or bite to eat along the way. It's ideal for youngsters who want to learn a little more about Hull's colourful past.

Check in each of the kiosks for a letter, collect all 12 and you'll be able to rearrange them to spell the name of someone closely related to the phone boxes.

1 The trail begins in Old Town's indoor Trinity Market where you'll find our oldest K1 kiosk dating from the 1920s. It's one of only five still in existence and is nestled among the many stalls and traders in the market.

2 Turn left at the bottom of Bowlalley Lane onto Market Place and you'll find a pair of Grade II listed K6 kiosks located right outside the old Post Office. There's a letter hiding in one.

3 Head around the corner to Alfred Gelder Street where you'll find another Grade II listed K6 kiosk at location number three.

4 Take a right and head down Guildhall Road to the Rose Bowl outside Queens Gardens to find the next cream kiosk. This one is located next to the historic Beverley Gate.

5 To find number five, head across to Queen Victoria Square, and then up King Edward Street. You'll spot the phone box just before you reach Jameson Street.

6 You're halfway there - continue up King Edward Street and Prospect Street and you'll find our next stopping point near the statue of Hull's most famous daughter, Amy Johnson.

7 Head down Brook Street, across the crossing to St Stephen's Shopping Centre and down Ferensway to Paragon Station. Outside the station you'll find a more modern kiosk.

8 For phone box number eight we need to leave the station and head back across Ferensway. Head down Jameson Street and you'll find our next K6 kiosk outside House of Fraser.

9 Kiosk number nine is one of a pair of K6 twins, which are located outside KCOM's HQ on Carr Lane. One of these boxes was previously painted in black and yellow stripes in honour of Hull's own charity fundraising legend Jean "Bee Lady" Bishop but has now been returned to its classic cream livery. Jean's phone box has been relocated outside the Integrated Care Centre named after Jean, in east Hull. Check both kiosks for letters.

10 Head up Carr Lane and onto Paragon Street, past the Hull Cheese pub and you'll find kiosk ten under the willow trees, outside the attractive 1950s-built Queens House.

11 It's a bit of a walk to kiosk number 11. Follow the dots on the map to the Fruit Market, go past the Minerva and you'll find kiosk number 11 by the waterfront on Nelson Street.

12 To find kiosk number 12, follow the map back to Old Town. Opposite King Billy's statue you'll find the final kiosk on our trail. We painted this K6 kiosk gold to mark Hull boxer Luke Campbell's triumph at the London 2012 Olympics.

Add the letters you find in each Phone box here:

1	2	3	4	5	6	7
8	9	10	11	12

We hope you enjoyed your trek around some of the city's wonderful history, as seen through our iconic cream phone boxes.

If you have completed our phone box trail and collected all the letters don't forget to let us know. Tweet us at @KCOMhome or find us on Facebook.
